"The police is releasing their prime suspect in the suitcase killer case."

"Yeah, "lack of evidence""

Can't a psychic unmask this killer?

Well, actually, that is possible. With a technique we call Memory Detection!

Duh, as if you can just read his mind.

We can ask the suspect which body-part we found in the suitcase. Only the real killer will recognize the correct answer.

Yeah, right, if that would REALLY work police would have used it by now.

Well, in Japan we do 5000 criminal mind tests each year. Perhaps it's time your country does so too?