

International Criminal Law - Joint Program

International Criminal Law is a unique, top-level joint LLM programme by the Amsterdam Law School and Columbia Law School (New York). It combines the study of theoretical aspects and foundations of international criminal law with its practical application by offering moot courts, organising meetings with top-practitioners (including ICC judges) and providing opportunities to engage in internships.

After your study

Thanks to our 'in context' teaching method, you can easily adapt to various kinds of legal practice and fulfill a range of functions. Our graduates work:

In international criminal courts and tribunals

In national legal institutions and at law firms

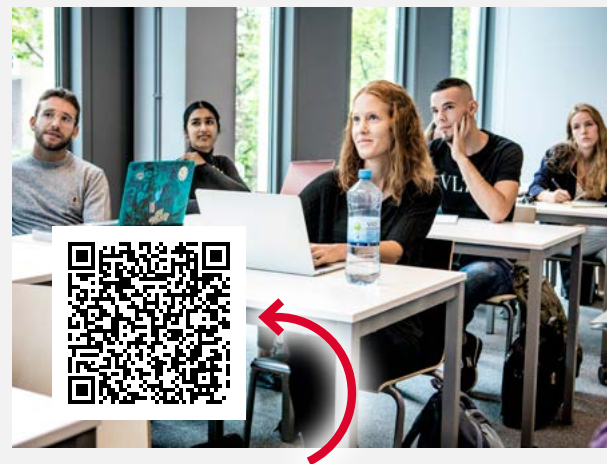

In international criminal law academia

At ministries of foreign affairs, justice and defence

ALP: Amsterdam Law Practice

The International Criminal Law Master's offers a tailor-made experiential education programme under the wing of the Amsterdam Law Practice (ALP).

In the courses of ALP, you apply your academic knowledge of the law and the skills you have learned by putting yourself in the shoes of a legal professional. The courses build a bridge to society and the future professional field.
