Education

- MSc. Biology (with 2nd subject Mathematics), Utrecht University (NL), 1981.
- PhD. Ecology, Utrecht University (NL), 1987.

(Remark: I already finished my PhD research in 1985, but I accepted a position at the Ministry of Education and Sciences, which meant that I wrote the thesis in my free time)

Positions

- 1981-1985, Department Evolutionary Biology, Utrecht University (NL): PhD research assistant;
- 1985-1987, Ministry of Education and Sciences, The Hague (NL): policymaker biological sciences
- 1987-1997, DLO-Institute for Agrobiology and Soil Fertility Research, Haren (NL): Scientist and department leader
- 1997-2006, Department Environmental Sciences, Utrecht University (NL): Full professor
- 2006-2010, Soil Sciences Centre, Wageningen University (NL): Scientific Manager (c. 180 fte)
- 2008-present (from 2015 one day per week), Biometris, Wageningen University (NL): Personal Professor
- 2014-2014, ISRIC World Soil Information, Scientific Director (ad interim)
- 2015-present (four days per week), Institute for Biodiversity and Ecosystem Dynamics (IBED of the University of Amsterdam (UvA)): Scientific director

Awards

- In 2013 I received the Humboldt-Forschungspreis for ‘Ihnen Anerkennung Ihrer bisherigen herausragenden Leistungen in Forschung und Lehre’ (€60.000)
- In 2008 I was appointed as Personal Professor at the Wageningen University (NL) for which I received €150.000 (€30.000 per year over a 5-year period) to ‘develop scientific excellence’.
- In 2005 I received the Environmental Sciences Award of the Utrecht University for my Science paper Food Web Ecology, Playing Jenga and Beyond. Science 309, 68, 2005

Research Expertise and Interests

My research interests are in the field of environmental and biological sciences, especially the analysis of structure and stability in complex communities (food webs), and the relationship between biological diversity, ecosystem functioning and environmental quality. Most of my studies have been applied to soil ecosystems. Soils are in particular interesting, as (i) soils contain extremely diverse, complex and dynamic communities, that (ii) govern soil processes such as the decomposition of organic matter, carbon sequestration and nutrient cycling that form major components of the global cycling of materials, energy and nutrients. Key in my approach is the linking of empirical information (mostly from field surveys) to mathematical models. This approach enables to derive ecosystem functioning, e.g. in terms of carbon sequestration and nutrient cycling, from the observed soil food web structures. The analyses show that the relationship between food web structure and soil ecosystem function is mutual in fundamental ways. Soil food webs govern ecosystems processes, while processes shape the structure and stability of the food webs. Along with analysing food webs and ecosystem processes in soils I became interested in the occurrence of ecological ‘tipping points’ and ‘sudden shifts’ in terrestrial ecosystems. These concepts have been developed for aquatic systems, but we found that they also occur during degradation and desertification in arid ecosystems. The occurrence of such shifts seems to be related to soil ecological processes that determine the water and nutrient uptake of the plants. Prevention of such shifts has a great value for securing food productivity in large areas worldwide.

The concepts we proposed to better understand the interrelationship between soil ecosystem processes and the structure and stability of biological communities, i.e. ‘trophic-level dependent interaction strengths’ and ‘weak links in long loops, and ‘local facilitation on small scales versus competition on larger scales’ has been published in high quality scientific journals and are well-received in the international literature.

University Teaching

At the Utrecht University I chaired the committee(s) that designed the new 5-year program Environmental Sciences, including a new 5-year program including a BSc and a MSc Program. Each program consisted of a natural sciences and a social sciences track that were tightly linked through combined courses. From 2004 the MSc. was awarded as International Prestige Master of the Utrecht University.

At the Utrecht University I developed two new courses, each 7.5 ECTS: the BSc course Environmental System Analyses and Modelling and the MSc course Themes in Land Use, Environment and Biodiversity (focused on research methodology).

At the Wageningen University I was member of the committees that designed the new MSc program Climate studies and the new MSc program Earth & Environment. I also developed two new courses: the BSc course. Food Web Ecology (2 ECTS) and the MSc course Academic Research Training (6 ECTS). In 2012 I supervised the students in the new BSc. Honours Program in the Environmental Sciences.

Scientific and societal committees and boards

1. Scientific Advisory Board of (Technical University) Delft Cluster (Delft, NL) (ended 2009)
2. NCEAS Working Group Detritus dynamics in ecosystems (UCSB, Santa Barbara CA, USA) (2005)
3. Steering committee DIVERSTAS-AgroBiodiversity (Paris, F) (ended 2005)

4. Chair Committee for Environment and Water Province Utrecht (Utrecht, NL) (ended 2006)
5. Utrecht Centre for Energy Research (Utrecht, NL) (ended 2006)
6. Royal Academy of Sciences (KNAW) committee Global Change (Amsterdam, NL) (ended 2008)
7. Vice-chair and member of the Technical Committee for Soil Protection (the Hague, NL) (ended 2009)
8. Board Knowledge Transfer Soils (Gouda, NL) (ended 2010)
9. Chair of the board of the ISRIC World Soil Information and Reference Centre (Unesco, Wageningen, NL)
10. Member of the Steering Committee NRP68 program ‘Soil as a Resource’ (Swiss Science Foundation)
11. Member of the Intergovernmental technical Panel on Soil (World Food Organisation FAO, Rome)

External Funding achievements (current)

Dutch National Science Foundation

The Dutch National Science Foundation NWO is presently funding three PhD-projects, each covering approximately €250.000 of the costs:

- 2011-2015 Complexity and stability in food webs: the role of nutritional quality
- 2011-2015 Complexity and stability in food webs: the role of infectious disease
- 2012-2016 Linking microbial diversity to the functioning of soil food webs

European Communion (Framework KP6 and KP7)

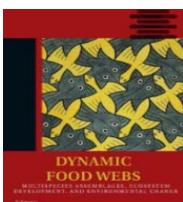

For each project I give the total amount (€) for my participation:

- 2009-2012 SoilService: Conflicting demands of land use, soil biodiversity and the sustainable delivery of ecosystem goods and services in Europe (€210.000)
- 2010-2014 SoilTrEC: Soil Transformations in European Catchments (€470.000)
- 2011-2015 EcoFinders: Ecological Function and Biodiversity Indicators in European Soils (€ 50.000)
- 2012-2016 CASCADE: Catastrophic Shifts in Drylands: How can we prevent ecosystem degradation? (€400.000)
- 2015-2019 Landmark: How can we make the most of our land? (€400.000)

Contribution to the early career of excellent researchers

Three of my former PhD-students have obtained permanent position at universities or research institutions on the basis of the excellent work they did in the context of their PhD research.

1. Dr. Anje-Margriet Neutel has two Science and one Nature paper on the basis of her PhD research. She is now staff member at the British Antarctic Survey, Cambridge, UK
2. Dr. Gerlinde de Deyn has one Nature paper on the basis of her PhD research. She was guest scientist at the University of Lancaster (UK). She now has a tenure position at Wageningen University (NL)
3. Dr. Sonia Kefi has one Nature paper on the basis of her PhD research. She worked at the University of Darmstadt (Germany) on a Rubicon project. She has a tenure position at the University of Montpellier (France).
